

CLAIMS

I claim:

A cabbage cutter comprising a hollow, cylindrical shaped body having a closed top and an open bottom with a cutting and chopping means that has a removable protective cover; the closed top of the cylindrical shaped body is covered with a permanently affixed cap that extends slightly over onto the cylindrical shaped body of the cabbage cutter to serve as a hand grip so that the person using the cabbage cutter will be able to maintain a good grip on the cabbage cutter to use the device efficiently and effectively at all times; the open bottom rim is filed or rubbed down to a smooth, thin, sharp cutting and chopping means that can be resharpened if it should become dulled from extensive use; a removable protective cover, contiguous with the cutting and chopping means of the hollow cylindrical shaped body, fits over the cutting and chopping means to serve as a protective shield from injury, and protects the cutting and chopping means from becoming damaged when the cabbage cutter is not in use or stored; a non-powered, hand operated device designed for strength and durability specifically to cut and chop through the thick stalks and tightly overlapping leaves of cabbage.
